

REGISTER TODAY!

2023 Annual Perinatal Nursing Conference

Improving Maternal-Infant Health Outcomes: Implications for Nursing

January 19th & 20th, 2023

12:00 – 4:30 pm (EST)

Join us for this 2-day virtual conference offering 8 contact hours, including 1 pharmacology hour. Clinical expert speakers from across the United States will be discussing a variety of perinatal-focused topics:

- Pharmacology in Hospitalized Antepartum Patients
- The RN role in Labor Comfort & Support
- Diabetes in Pregnancy
- Care of Pregnant Minors
- Pregnancy as a Result of Rape
- Improving Outcomes in Obstetrical Hemorrhage
- Trauma-Informed Care
- New Perinatal CNS Role Transition

This conference is hosted by the Indiana University School of Nursing in partnership with the Perinatal CNS Network.

The Perinatal CNS Network is an informal special interest network group formed in 2020 and comprised of like-minded CNSs from around the United States, who are committed to the mission of improving maternal-infant health outcomes by providing a forum for solving problems, sharing innovations, exchanging ideas, and leading clinical care by supporting and disseminating the unique contributions of the Perinatal CNS. For more information about this group, please contact Amy Shay at acshay@iu.edu.

Registration Fees:

Early-bird registration by December 31st, 2022.....$79
After January 1st, 2023.....$99

Registration closes on January 15th, 2023

Register Here!!

Conference Objectives: 1. Identify opportunities and challenges in providing advanced care to mothers and infants with complex needs. 2. Describe clinical and ethical considerations in providing care to vulnerable populations. 3. Discuss strategies for successful perinatal clinical nurse specialist role transition.

Please visit the IU School of Nursing Continuing Education website for more information about our course offerings.